

"When we whites control humidity, install glass to filter out the sun's rays, because they fade colours, and encase objects in glass, we in effect deny both life and death to a sacred item. Perhaps we do with our fetishes what we do with our corpses: preserve them so we can ignore them."

Robert Grimes

"Behind glass they become objects"

Tom Hill

